

About Plays and Players

By BIDE DUDLEY

WILLIAM A. BRADY is announcing his plans for the coming season. He will present here John Galsworthy's play, "The Skin Game," a current London success; "The Young Vintners," Edith Goodall's dramatization of Daisy Ashford's book; "Madame et son Deseur," in which Grace George will star; "Anna Ascends," by Harry Chapman Ford, with Alice Brady as its star; "Man and Woman," by Benjamin L. Glazer, starring Mary Nash; "Opportunity," by Owen Davis, featuring James L. Crane, with Lily Cahill in the cast; "Society," also by Owen Davis; "The Dreamer," by John Robert Goodman, starring Law Fields; "Jim Lohmeyer," by Eleanor Gales, with Curtis Cooksey in the principal role; "Immodest Violet," by David Cane of the Harvard School for Playwrights; a Shakespearean performance, and an adaptation of Moliere's "School for Wives." In association with Margaret Anglin Mr. Brady hopes to present an historical drama called "Old Hickory," in which Andrew Jackson is the central figure. At the request of Mr. Brady Joseph D'Amico's Buffalo stock company will soon play "A Lazy Lady," by David G. Wallace.

During his productions for the regular stage Mr. Brady will make numerous films. Already he has started work on a screen version of "Ida." Other film productions will have Miss Alice Delys as their star.

Attention, Limerickers!

"An Ardent Admirer" (Gawn, you! We've got thousands of 'em) has set forth in rhyme some of the reforms Presidential Candidate Dudley will bring about when he gets the chair. Give a glance:

When Uncle Dudley's President, he'll show the reason why the profiteers take every cent and old New York's gone dry. His snif hound on the trail will go and work real hard, you bet! His aim in life will be to show you poor fish where it's wet. We know you miss your good old suds—so say we all—we're sore. So quickly grab this cart of Dudley's. Be happy ever more. If good old times you do not hate, just take a tip from Popper—vote Dudley's ticket; vote it straight, and do the thing up proper. New York will ne'er again be dry; dull gloom will meet its fate. You'll get the good old rock and rye you've missed so much of late. For Dudley is a handsome man—a great man, I declare. So sing as loudly as you can: "Send Dudley to the Chair!"

Allen, Allen Kearns, Marguerite Zender, Paul Ryman, Richard Kramer, Marcel Roussau, Olga Minkha, Ivan Strogoff and Grant and Wing.

HE'LL BE A BUSY MAN.

E. Lyall Swete has returned to New York to stage "Mooch" for Comstock & Galt. He will engage people also for "Chu Chin Chow" and "Aphrodite." In all he'll need about 1,000 people. Mr. Swete has opened an office in the Manhattan Opera House Building.

SINGERS COMING HERE.

William Morris, just back from Europe, has arranged to appear at the Palace Theatre, London, next February. Mr. Morris also arranged to offer Joseph Hup, Scotch tenor, and Tom Burke, Irish tenor, in concerts in the United States. In September Mr. Morris will bring Graham Moffat's comedy, "Don't Tell," to New York.

GOSSIP.

The Century Promenade will not open until Tuesday evening, July 6. "The Scourge" by Octavius Roy Cohen will be presented at the Shubert-Crescent, Brooklyn, to-night. The Ziegfeld Roof will open at 11 o'clock nightly hereafter. This it is hoped the "Follies" and "Frolics" crowds will not conflict.

ERNEST TORRENCE OF "THE NIGHT BOAT."

Ernest Torrence of "The Night Boat" has not missed a day's work through illness since 1917. E. F. Albee and Percy G. Williams have sent $1,000 each to Sam H. Harris for the Nellie Revell benefit fund.

A THOUGHT FOR TO-DAY.

Maya Omear Blumkin is a very proud man. He has had a bathtub installed in his house—Wellsville Look Like.

FOOLISHMENT.

(By Mary O'Brien.) I cannot shoot the chickens. But I know what I'll do. I'll go and get a horse. And let the old horse shoot.

FROM THE CHESTNUT TREE.

"He's a sky pilot." "Aviator, eh?" "No, preacher."

LAST week's ouija question elicited many replies, and we trust that our readers will find this week's question just as interesting. Here it is. Keep your answers short and mail them to The Ouija Editor, DO SECRET MARRIAGES TURN OUT HAPPILY?

Audrey Secrey, Canarsie—I think this week's question is just the thing for anything. I am one of those little girls who heeded the honeyed words of my sweetheart to fly with him and be married in the coal of the evening. I kept our marriage secret for two weeks. I am just as happy as though we had a big wedding, and besides, we did not get a lot of impractical wedding gifts.

A. B. C.—Sure they turn out happily. That's the only way to get married. Whose business is it when you get married? You are the only one concerned.

Ray Ridge—If a couple are in love with each other and their parents object to their marrying I think they should get married secretly, because they will never be happy apart. But if there is no objection to their marrying, it is perfectly nonsensical for them to be married secretly.

Sanity, N. Y. C.—Most marriages are like fireworks—bound to explode—more or less. Some end in a loud crash and others just fizzle. And secret marriages are like other marriages, only more so.

Here are a few answers to last week's question: Jack of Hearts—I hope to tell you for the one-piece bathing suits. Only a law should be passed to prevent skinny dames from wearing them.

Mary K.—Where does A-Ce-AM get that stuff, Virtuous Youth! I smoke two packs a day; do not paint, have long hair. And I am hard to say that I will wear a one-piece any place that I can get away with it. Success to the Ouija Column.

Helen—Say nothing. Just read the piece on the front page of June 23 Evening World. And by the way if you don't want us to wear one-piece, don't yell "Economy!"

Wm. Arthur—Why—It all depends. If she is 19 and weighs 110 pounds, I'll say yes, but if she's 40 and weighs 192, I say DECIDEDLY NO.

Ben—It's all right for the girls to
